Trees are essential

Trees found in backyards, city streets, and parks make up nearly 25% of America's tree canopy. Forests in the southeastern United States alone help to filter 50% of the nation's water supply and absorb 12% of carbon emissions. The everyday activities of people depend on the silent work of the environment to keep us moving.

Trees are essential to...

- reducing the greenhouse effect
- producing clean air
- providing food
- cooling cities and streets
- generating oxygen
- preserving natural habitats

"The best time to plant a tree was 20 years ago. The next best time is now."
