"I specially want to thank the thousands of BAPS Charities volunteers who believe that a healthy planet is critical to building healthy communities where both nature and people can thrive."

- Mark Tercek, President and CEO of The Nature Conservancy

BAPS CHARITIES

Community Support

2017

Community support organizations, from literacy advocates to volunteer firefighters associations, together create a national network of services that provide strength for today and hope for tomorrow. BAPS Charities provides philanthropic support to community organizations around the country working to address global challenges with local populations, improving cornerstones of society from education to health. Additionally, partnering with non-profits helps BAPS Charities volunteers better understand the needs and efforts of important organizations in their local communities so they can join together in cultivating a deeper spirit of service.

Below are the many organizations BAPS Charities supported in 2017 in cities throughout North America.

Approximately every nine minutes, someone in the United States dies of leukemia. By the simple act of donating bone marrow, one has the potential to help treat a myriad of diseases including leukemia, lymphoma, and inherited immune and metabolic disorders. While the search for the cure for many of these diseases continues, currently one of the most effective forms of treatment is through bone marrow transplantation. Only 30% of patients in need of a bone marrow transplant are able to find a suitable donor within their own family. Patients needing a bone marrow transplant are most likely to find a match with someone from their own ethnic group. BAPS Charities is determined to help increase the donor registry nationwide to help any of those that need this potentially lifesaving treatment.

Despite the United States' economic prosperity, nearly 50 million Americans go hungry every day, which includes 33.3 million adults and 15.8 million children. National statistics estimate that 1 in 6 Americans cannot afford to place a meal on their tables on a daily basis.

BAPS Charities holds annual food drives across the United States in an effort to address hunger across all communities. Volunteers of all ages and community partners collectively donate hundreds of canned and dried food items which are then delivered to local food banks.
