WALK GREEN 2019

Trees are essential

Trees found in backyards, city streets, and parks make up nearly 25% of America's tree canopy. Forests in the southeastern United States alone help to filter 50% of the nation's water supply and absorb 12% of carbon emissions. The everyday activities of people depend on the silent work of the environment to keep us moving.

The many ways trees help...

- reducing the greenhouse effect
- producing clean air
- providing food
- cooling cities and streets
- generating oxygen
- preserving natural habitats

Walk Green 2019 Impact

The Nature Conservancy (TNC) will plant 61,000 trees under the Plant a Billion Trees initiative, including: Shortleaf Pine Forest, Mississippi Botanical Hardwood, Upper Great Lakes. These trees will be planted within one year.

361,000 Trees in 4 years
